

An Van Hauwermeiren

An Van Hauwermeiren has a master's degree both in engineering and in moral assistance from the University of Gent (Belgium). She did three years of research in mystical experience and last year, finished the Leadership Training Program at the Marion Woodman Foundation.

She teaches chemistry, microbiology and creative personal development at the Technical University of Gent (KAHO – ST.LIEVEN) – department biochemistry. She also works as a therapist in a Jungian way - including bodywork - with groups and individuals.

An Van Hauwermeiren published her first book: "To you to me to Her. A personal search for the Goddess."

Ingrid Waldron

Ingrid Waldron is a lecturer in the Sociology and Equity Studies in Education Department at OISE/UT and in the Department of Sociology at the Scarborough and St. George campuses of the University of Toronto. She teaches courses on antiracism, race and ethnicity. She has also taught a women's health course at McMaster University.

Marilyn Daniels

Originally trained as a cultural historian, Marilyn Daniels has worked as a university lecturer, conference speaker, career counsellor and on behalf of the not-for-profit sector. She later trained as a psychotherapist, integrating western psychology with ancient wisdom traditions before establishing VisionLegacy Coaching, a company dedicated to helping individuals and organizations make a profound difference in the world. A member of the planning committees for the (OISE/UT) Transformative Learning Centre's Spirit Matters and One Earth Community, she is co-author of Circles of Transformation: Finding Our Way in the 'Great Work.' To learn more about Marilyn, see www.visionlegacy.com or <http://whats-needed-in-these-times.blogspot.com/>

Roxana Roumencheva

Roxana Roumencheva, M.A. will provide background on Traditional Chinese Medicine and the 5-point protocol and will present on the new Day Withdrawal Management Program at UHN, Toronto Western Hospital that utilizes AcuDetox.

Christine Courbasson

Dr. Christine Courbasson is a clinical psychologist, Head of the Eating Disorders and Addiction Clinic at CAMH, and assistant professor, Department of Psychiatry at U of T., and Jacqueline Heron, H.S.C., R.T., B.A., M.A. candidate, will present research outcome regarding the usage of Auricular acupuncture as an adjunctive therapy in treating women with concurrent disorders.

Kimberly Murdoch

Kimberly Murdoch, N.T.S., H.S.C., D.Ac. has worked in and will describe the DARE Network, a project for Burmese refugees at the Thai/Burma border, which utilizes traditional healing methods for addiction and mental health treatment, including AcuDetox.

Ursula Carsen

Ursula Carsen is a Toronto based Jungian Psychotherapist and graduate of the First Marion Woodman Foundation Leadership Training. Her work's emphasis is on integrating body, soul and mind. Drawing on dreams, body work, active imagination, writing and intuitive art making are common tools in her practice to aid the process of healing, wholeness and consciousness.

Wendy Golden-Levitt

Wendy Golden-Levitt is a Jungian oriented therapist. Inspired by the work of Marion Woodman, she brings the healing, wisdom and experience of sandtray, dreams and movement to her therapeutic practice. Wendy lives and works in Toronto and gives workshops for adults and children in Canada and the United States.

Rosalynne Clements

Rosalynne Clements is a practicing Dream Analyst living in Newmarket, Ontario. She gives workshops in analyzing dreams, body-work, active imagination, and developing one's own authentic voice. She is the author of the book, Analyzing Your Dreams Dictionary, which provides tools for understanding dreams within a Jungian framework.

Azarmidokht Rezaei

Azarmidokht Rezaei, Ph.D in Psychology, teaching as associate professor & head of department of master of counselling in psychology department of azad Islamic university of Marvdasht, Iran, counsellor and psychotherapist in Behpoyan counselling clinic in Shiraz.

Isaac Stein

Isaac Stein is an M.Ed Student in OISE's Adult Education and Counselling Psychology Department. He is a disability rights advocate and is interested in pursuing a career in counseling with disabled client.

Judith Harris

Judith Harris is a Jungian analyst and yoga teacher living in London, Ontario. She has been working on the connection between psyche and body for more than twenty years, having begun her work at the Candida Foundation in Toronto in the 1980's. Judith teaches at the C.G. Jung Foundation in Toronto, at the International School of Analytical Psychology (ISAP) in Zurich, Switzerland, as well as internationally with The Marion Woodman Foundation. Judith is the author of Jung and Yoga: The Psyche-Body Connection, Inner City Books, 2001.

Maureen Smith

Maureen Smith is a Bioenergetic Kinesiologist that has an energy healing practice called North Toronto Energy Healing. This system is based on Traditional Chinese Medicine and psychotherapy and has been widely used in Europe and in the United States for over 20 years. Presently Maureen is continuing her studies at the Toronto School of Traditional Chinese Medicine.

Linda I. Kawer

Linda I. Kawer, LCSW, has been a psychotherapist and clinical supervisor in private practice for almost twenty-five years, and she has developed and run intensive addiction and trauma programs. Linda has studied Marion Woodman's work for many years and will soon be completing her BodySoul Rhythms leadership program.

Sil Reynolds

Sil Reynolds, R.N. N.P., is a counselor who specializes in eating disorders. Sil has been a student of Marion Woodman's for fifteen years and is a graduate of her BodySoul Leadership program. She has led Geneen Roth's 'Breaking Free From Emotional Eating' workshops across North America. In 2005, she co-created 'Love Your Tree' with Eve Ensler as an educational forum for Ensler's Broadway play, The Good Body.

Véronique Dufour

Maître de conférences (Reader), University Louis Pasteur, Strasbourg, France
PhD, Sorbonne University Paris 5, Clinical Psychologist, University Hospital, (Psychiatric), children and adolescents. Member of research unity: Subjectivity, Knowledge and social links, URPSCLS, EA 3071. Thematic of research: Gifted children, intelligence and affect, drawing, body and family representations, Differences of generation, anorexia, violence.

Ross Woodman

Ross Woodman, PhD., Professor Emeritus, University of Western Ontario, author of The Apocalyptic Vision in the Poetry of Shelley; Sanity Madness Transformation: The Psyche in Romanticism (both published by The University of Toronto Press); James Reaney (McClelland and Stewart); Jack Chambers (Coach House Press); and numerous articles on psychology and religion, the English romantics, and Canadian art.

In 1993 Professor Woodman received the Distinguished Scholar Award presented by Keats Shelley Association of America.

Amrita Narayanan

Amrita Narayanan will receive her doctorate in clinical psychology from the PGSP-Stanford Medical School Psy.D. Consortium this June. Her research interest is in developing traditional Indian approaches to the mind-body toward modern clinical practice and dialogue. She practices psychotherapy in a community mental health clinic in San Francisco and is a longtime student and teacher of yoga.

Rea Nolan

Rea Nolan teaches voice at John Abbott College in Montreal. She is a consultant for Le Portage in the development of new therapeutic approaches to addiction rehabilitation. She has worked as an Independent Voice Specialist with theatre professionals, and with individuals interested in personal development. Rea has also worked with corporate clients for personal and professional vocal and communication issues.

Rebecca Hagey

Rebecca Hagey PhD, Associate Professor, Faculty of Nursing, University of Toronto, investigates approaches for navigating conflict to achieve health equity and accessibility.

Initiatives include:

- 1) Building the infrastructure for equal access and participation in resources for health among Aboriginal people in Ontario
- 2) Building consensus for healthy race relations in Nursing in Ontario.

Recent funding: MOHLTC, Canadian Race Relations Foundation, Law Commission of Canada

Eileen Antone

Eileen Antone is Associate Professor, is a member of the Oneida of the Thames First Nation. She is a faculty member in the department of Adult Education, Community Development, and Counselling Psychology at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education/UT. Dr. Antone is a faculty member in the Transitional Year Program with a Cross-appointment with University College at the University of Toronto where the primary focus of her work is with Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal students achieving university studies. Dr. Antone has many years of experience with Aboriginal communities and organizations, both as a committee member and a concerned individual advocating for Aboriginal perspectives.

M.C.L. Provost

M.C.L. Provost is a mother, artist educator, and doctoral researcher in the Family Health contexts of Minority, Indigenous, Diaspora and World Indigenous peoples. Machiste' W. Quintana is a father, researcher-writer, actor, artist. He is a Traditional Teacher and StoryKeeper in New York. They work with mythographies for recovering "family loving."

Sharan Virdee

Sharan Virdee is a Counselling Psychologist in Training studying at City University, London. Her interests lie primarily in working with adolescents, women, the South Asian community and those with a forensic history. Her doctoral research is centred on self harming behaviours within the South Asian community.

Sil Reynolds

Sil Reynolds, R.N. N.P., is a counselor who specializes in eating disorders. A student of Marion Woodman's for fifteen years, Sil also led Geneen Roth's 'Breaking Free From Emotional Eating' workshops across North America. In 2005, she co-created 'Love Your Tree' with Eve Ensler as an educational forum for Ensler's Broadway play, The Good Body.

Janice Meilach and Nancy Christie

Janice Meilach and Nancy Christie are both graduates of the Sensorimotor Psychotherapy Trauma Training. Janice is a psychotherapist at Queen West Community Health Centre and is in private practice. She graduated from O.I.S.E. with a Masters in Education in 1992. Nancy has been in private practice with a special interest in the somatic aspects of psychotherapy for 20 years. She holds a Masters in Therapeutic Counseling from Medicina Alternativa.

Lourdes F. Brache-Tabar

Lourdes F. Brache-Tabar, LHMC, MA, MPS considers herself a work in process. She is an Expressive Therapies doctoral student at Lesley University in Cambridge, Massachusetts. She is fascinated by the imagination, dreams, and fairytales. She sees herself as multiple characters in the fairytale of life. Her focus is integration. As a holder of a Masters degree in agriculture, a Masters in depth psychology, and embodied dreamworker, she tries to integrate clinical and expressive therapies, ecology of psyche, with the landscape of the heart. She weaves these parts into the night and lets the depth of the unconscious reveal its mystery through dreams.

Ted Lo

Dr. Ted Lo is an assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Toronto, a staff psychiatrist of the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health, and Mt. Sinai Hospital. He also consulted widely to community agencies. He founded FACT (Friends of Alternative & Complementary Therapies), which promotes credible information in complementary and alternative healthcare.

Gella Richards

Dr Gella Richards is a chartered counselling psychologist. She has her own private practice including both self-referrals and court referrals. She is principal lecturer and manages the doctoral research in counselling psychology at London Metropolitan University. She also supervises and trains counselling psychologist internationally.

Maya Hammer

Maya Hammer has a diploma in Ayurvedic Medicine, and is a certified yoga instructor and Phoenix Rising Yoga Therapy practitioner. She is a first year Master's student in Counselling Psychology at OISE/UT, working under the supervision of Dr. Roy Moodley. Her research interests include integrating traditional, complementary, and alternative medicine with counselling and psychotherapy.

Patricia Poulin

Patricia Poulin is a shiatsu practitioner, a student of biodynamic cranio-sacral therapy and a third-year Ph.D. student in Counselling Psychology at OISE/UT. Her research focuses on clinical use of mindfulness-based interventions and integration of traditional, complementary and alternative medicine in counselling and psychotherapy.

Joseph K. So

Joseph K. So is a medical anthropologist and professor at Trent University. His many research interests include migration, ethnicity and health, focusing on mental health among immigrants in Canada, and in the area of anthropology of race and racism. Active in professional volunteerism, Professor So is a consulting medical anthropologist at Hong Fook Mental Health Service, a multicultural mental health agency in the Greater Toronto Area.

Bonnie Burstow

Dr. Bonnie Burstow is a faculty member in the department of Adult Education and Counselling Psychology at OISE/UT, a feminist psychotherapist, and a trauma specialist. Best known for her book, Radical Feminist Therapy, she is also a prolific author, whose expertise includes use of Freirian codifications, trauma theory, and psychiatric hegemony.

Jean-Paul Restoule

Jean-Paul Restoule is Anishinaabe (Ojibwe) and French-Canadian and a member of the Dokis First Nation. He is Assistant Professor of Aboriginal Education at OISE/UT and lives in Toronto.

Olga Oulanova

Olga Oulanova is an MA candidate in counselling psychology at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto. She is a karate practitioner and instructor. Research interests include alternative and complementary approaches to health and healing, with a particular focus on Aboriginal traditional healing practices and on the therapeutic qualities of the Martial Arts.

Lana Stermac

Lana Stermac is Professor of Counselling Psychology and a registered Psychologist in the province of Ontario, Canada. Professor Stermac's teaching interests include courses on theories and techniques of counselling, counsellor training, ethical issues for counsellors and psychologists, diagnostics and research methods. She has also taught courses related to her research interests in violence and trauma. Professor Stermac's research interests include two main areas related to the psychological, psychosocial and educational effects of traumatic experiences and stress. One area examines factors related to the effects of sexual assault and violence. This includes all forms of intimate partner and dating violence, sexual harassment as well as sexual assault. The other main area of research examines cultural and cross-cultural adaptation and health among immigrant youth and adults who have lived in war-zones and under stressful circumstances in conflict areas around the world. This also examines the effects of traumatic stress on learning.

Aanchal Rai

Aanchal Rai is currently pursuing her M.A. degree in Counseling Psychology at the University of Toronto. Her current focus of interest is “The role of South Asian traditional healers in counseling”. She is primarily researching South Asian traditional healers in Toronto and Greater Toronto Areas.

Elisabeth Baerg Hall

Dr. Elisabeth Baerg Hall, M.D., FRCPC, is a Clinical Associate Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of British Columbia and maintains a psychiatric practice at BC Children’s Hospital specializing in individual and group psychotherapy for depressed adolescents. Elisabeth is one of the founding facilitators of Theater of the Soul, which is based on the workshops and writings of Marion Woodman. Elisabeth has been exploring the psychoneuroimmunologic correlates of Marion’s work and is keenly interested in helping others understand the biological underpinnings of the mind-body miracle.

Jane Mizevich

Jane Mizevich is a first year Ph.D. student in the Counselling Psychology program at OISE/UT, where she also completed her M.A. in Counselling Psychology. For her Ph.D. dissertation she plans to examine the protective factors that help women resist the pressure to be thin.

Robyn Legge

Robyn Legge is a second year PhD student in the Counselling Psychology program at OISE/UT. Her research interests include girls' health and development, body image, eating disorders, and impact of femininity on girls' feelings towards their body and self.

Svetlana Lilova

Svetlana Lilova completed her Master’s degree in Counselling Psychology at OISE/UT. She is currently a counsellor, practicing emotion-focused therapy integrated with other modalities. She is also a writer and an artist.

Janice Stieber Rous

Janice Rous has been a certified Alexander Technique teacher since 1981. She is the creator of BODY DIALOGUE™, a unique approach to body awareness and care. She is a graduate of the BodySoulRhythms Leadership Training Program taught by Marion Woodman, Ann Skinner and Mary Hamilton. Currently, she teaches at U-Turn Dance Company in Winter Park, Florida.

Erin Ross

Erin Ross is a doctoral student at OISE in her 4th year of study. She is interested in women’s mental health generally and women’s experiences with their bodies in particular.